TO THE PUBLIC.

IN presenting this work to a generous public, I feel extremely diffident, knowing what is expected in the compilation of a Directory, CORRECTNESS, and which the public have a right to expect, for the credit of our noble city, and their own benefit, I have endeavored to the best of my humble abilities, to make it correct and acceptable, and flatter myself, that on perusal it will be found to contain much that is useful and interesting to our citizens, and also the stranger passing through our city, for business or pleasure. I come not before the public, heralded by a powerful press, nor do I give my nursling any other name to give it character, than that of the glorious city, the names of whose citizens are recorded in its pages, and which, to me, is a sufficient gratification, and ought to be to any ordinary man, as Buffalo, in my humble opinion, is destined to shine resplendent in the brilliant galaxy of noble cities, that are rapidly forming to encircle this continent with a more magnificent belt than was ever worn by the proudest nation that ever figured in the world's history, in proof of which look back into the vista of the past twenty-five years ago, and contrast our now noble Main street, then lined with stumps and rail fences, and now bedecked with magnificent stores, filled with every variety and delicacy that can please the fancy or tempt the palate—then the city contained twenty-five hundred inhabitants—now, in 1848, forty thousand, an increase without parallel in the history of cities, and our harbor filled during the season of navigation with vessels innumerable, laden with the rich products of the west, each state of which is equal in extent and resources to some of the boasted empires of the Old World. With this brilliant future before us, what may we not become by making efforts worthy of our destiny? May such be our course under the blessing of the Divine Providence is the earnest wish of

THE AUTHOR.

EARLY REMINISCENCES

OF BUFFALO,

AND THE

NAVIGATION OF LAKE ERIE.

BUFFALO is situated in the County of Erie, and State of New York, in north latitude 49 degrees and 50 min., and west longitude from Greenwich, 79 degrees, 22 min., 37 sec. at the eastern extremity of Lake Erie. The commerce between the east and west is mainly conducted through, and is the chief source of the prosperity of Buffalo. It was surveyed and plotted as the village of New Amsterdam in 1804, and incorporated as a village by the Legislature in April, 1813, the charter was revised in 1815, but not acted upon until 1816, when it was again revised. A new charter was granted in 1822, and amended in 1826, and in 1832 it was incorporated as a city. The earliest information as to the settlement of Buffalo is derived from the testimony of Mr. JOSEPH LANDON, who came here to reside in 1806; he was a land surveyor by profession, and until recently lived in our midst. In 1796 he passed through Buffalo on his way to Ohio, to survey the Western Reserve. At that time there were but four buildings on the whole of the present site of Buffalo, as stated by Mr. Landon, and now covered by a population of 40,000, gathered from almost every nation of the earth. One was a double log-house on Exchange street, where the tannery of N. Case & Co. now stands, and was occupied by Martin Middaugh and Ezekiel Lane, his son-in-law, who lately died in this city on the 6th of April, of the present year, at the advanced age of 102 years. They continued to occupy it until 1807, when Judge Barker, the father of Jacob A. Barker, moved into it. Another was on the corner of Commercial street and the Terrace, where the fine block of stores called the Sidway Block now stands. The third stood near the site of the present Mansion House. The fourth was occupied by Col. Asa Ransom.

Middaugh cleared a small plot of ground across the creek, nearly opposite the foot of what is now Main street, who sometimes worked as a cooper, and did other small jobs for the settlers, and was a great favorite with the Indians, with whom he hunted and fished, and occupied his little clearing by permission of the owners, until 1822, in the winter of which year he died at an extreme old age. In 1807 there were about a dozen houses in Buffalo, from that time there was a small but regular increase of the population until its destruction on the 21st of December, 1812, by the British, after which it rose like a phoenix from its ashes, and has arrived to its present proud position of the "Queen City of the Lakes."

To preserve material for the future historians of the Commerce of the great Western Lakes, we gladly put into a permanent form the following brief but interesting memoranda of the first attempts at constructing Harbors upon Lake Erie, and of the dangers and inconveniences experienced from the want of them, by the early navigators of her waters :

The navigation of Lake Erie before the formation of artificial harbors, was attended with great difficulties and dangers. Vessels bound to Detroit encountering a heavy wind before reaching the Islands, were often compelled to return to the Niagara River, or run under the lee of Bird Island. Freight for the several towns of the south shore of the Lake was landed from vessels by boats or scows prepared and kept for that purpose. Grand River, Cayhoga, and perhaps some other rivers, generally admitted the entrance of scows and boats of light draft of water, but most of the freight destined for the upper country was landed on the open beach. This could be done in calm weather, or when the wind was off shore. Vessels were often detained for many days, and sometimes for weeks, waiting for suitable weather to discharge. Instances were of frequent occurrence where vessels were driven off shore by a squall or gale of wind, leaving a part of the cargo, and perhaps the Captain and some of the crew on the beach. In the season of 1800, Capt. Luther, of the Ranger, having got out his cargo at Portland, accompanied his men with the last boat load of salt to the shore, soon after landing a gale set in. The holding ground was bad—the vessel dragged her anchors towards an iron bound shore. She was saved by an old French sailor named Shicott, the only person on board—he cut her cable, and with what sail he could make, got her under weigh, and carried her safe into the Niagara River. In the fall of 1813, two vessels belonging to Perry's squadron, lying at anchor near the mouth of Detroit River, were driven into the Lake by a severe gale of wind, which continued for three days. The vessels unable to make a harbor were beached a few rods from Buffalo Creek.

So great were the difficulties attending navigation prior to the formation of harbors, that the average number of trips that a vessel could make to Detroit during the season was not more than six or seven. Great as were the embarrassments and losses experienced for want of harbors, the means for their construction was limited to private subscriptions and individual enterprise. Neither the State nor General Government made appropriations for improving the lake. If the means had been forthcoming for the construction of harbors, there was a great diversity of opinion on the subject. The general opinion was that the mouths of the rivers might be improved by some kind of works designed to continue through the season of navigation with the deep water given by the spring freshets. Others doubted the practicability of improving our rivers in any way, believing that the sands that barred their mouths were brought down by the current from the country above. This opinion, strange as it may appear, was entertained by several talented and practical men in our country. These diverse views tended greatly to discourage those who looked to the improvement of the rivers as the means of securing good harbors. As the commerce of the lakes, and the numbers of the vessels increased, the want of harbors was most sensibly felt, and by none more than by the citizens of Buffalo, some of whom were sanguine in the belief that a good harbor might be made at the mouth of every considerable stream on the lakes. Painesville, Ohio, is entitled to the credit of making the first experiment in harbor improvements on the lakes. At the session of the Ohio Legislature in 1816, commencing in December of that year, a company was chartered to construct a harbor at the mouth of Grand River, and under this charter some $8000 were subscribed. The late William Lattimer, Abraham Skinner, Seymour Austin and Eli Bend, were the active men engaged in the enterprise. In 1819 they commenced operations on the east side of the river, and drove two tiers of piles about 40 rods in length, and about five feet apart, and filled them up with brush, timber, and a few stones. In February 1820, a severe freshet, at the breaking up of the ice in the river, carried away about 15 rods of the works. Nothing more was done until 1821, when the piles were extended about 30 rods further, making in the whole about 55 rods, when the amount of funds raised by the company proving totally inadequate to the accomplishment of the object, the work was surrendered to the General Government, who made an appropriation of $1000, and the next year made another small appropriation. In 1827, government assumed the construction of the harbor, under the direction of its own agents.

The second experiment was made by citizens of Buffalo, they commenced the construction of a pier in 1820.

The war which had swept over our frontier, had impoverished the inhabitants of the little place that has since grown into the "Queen City of the Lakes." Their property had been destroyed—they were embarrassed by debts contracted in rebuilding their houses, which had been burned by the enemy—they were without capital to prosecute to advantage, mechanical or mercantile employments—without a harbor or any means of participating in the lake trade, and were suffering, with the country at large, all the evils of a deranged currency. In the midst of these accumulated embarrassments, the construction of the Erie Canal was begun, and promised help. However distant might be the time of its completion, Buffalo was to be its terminating point; and when the canal was completed, our village should become a city. But no larger craft than a canoe could enter Buffalo Creek. All forwarding business was done at Black Rock, and the three or four small vessels that were owned in Buffalo, received and discharged their cargoes at that place. A harbor was then indispensably necessary at the terminus of the canal; and unless one could be constructed at Buffalo, before the western section of the canal was located, it might terminate at Black Rock. This was the more to be apprehended, as an opinion prevailed, that harbors could not be made on the lakes, at the mouths of the rivers. But a harbor we were resolved to have. Application was accordingly made to the legislature for a survey of the creek, and an act was passed on the 10th of April, 1818, authorizing the survey, and directing the supervisors of the County of Niagara to pay three dollars a day to the surveyor, and to assess the amount upon the county. The survey was made by the present Hon. William Peacock, during the summer of that year, gratuitously. Then came the important question, where to get the money to build this harbor? At that day no one thought of looking to Congress for appropriations, and there was no encouragement to apply to the legislature of the State. The citizens could not raise the means, however willing they might have been. A public meeting was called, and an agent (the Hon. Charles Townsend) was appointed to proceed to Albany and obtain a loan. Jonas Harrison, Ebenezer Walden, H. B. Potter, J. G. Camp, O. Forward, A. H. Tracy, E. Johnson, E. F. Norton and Charles Townsend, were the applicants. Judge Townsend, after a protracted effort, succeeded, and an act was passed April 17th, 1819, authorizing a loan to the above mentioned persons and their associates, of twelve thousand dollars, for twelve years, to be secured on bond and mortgage to double that amount, and applied to the construction of a harbor, which the state had reserved the right to take when completed, and to cancel the securities. The year of 1819 was one of general financial embarrassment, and no where was the pressure or want of money more sensibly felt than in the lake country. It had no market, and its produce was of little value. Some of the associates became embarrassed and others discouraged. The summer passed away, and finally all refused to execute the required securities, except Judge Townsend and Judge Forward. Thus matters stood in Deember, 1819. Unless the condition of the loan should be complied with, the appropriation would be lost, and another might not easily be obtained; for the project of a harbor at Black Rock, and the termination of the canal at that place, was advocated by influential men, and the practicability of making a harbor at the mouth of Buffalo creek was seriously questioned. At this crisis, Judge Wilkeson, who had declined being on the original company, came forward, and with Messrs. Townsend and Forward, agreed to make the necessary security. This was perfected during the winter of 1820—each individual giving his several bond and mortgage, for eight thousand dollars. The money thus loaned was received in the spring. Private property had been mortgaged to raise the money—nearly a thousand of it was spent in preparations to commence. The importance of a united and speedy effort was now sensibly felt. A public meeting was called and fully attended, not only by those who were liable on the bond, but by many young mechanics and others. Dr. Johnson, John G. Camp and Dr. Chapin, were chosen a committee to obtain and collect subscriptions.

The provisions and goods were paid to the workmen without loss, but on much of the other property, (which was sold at auction,) there was an average loss of about thirty-seven and a half per cent.

The means being secured to prosecute the work, the laborers were called together, and the work proceeded, for the progress and completion of which, we are indebted for our present prosperity. Thanks to the men who nobly and successfully carried through an enterprise, which at the time appeared almost hopeless.

YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

This useful Institution was originated in 1836—that prolific era of many enterprises that proved short-lived bubbles; but it struggled successfully through the reverses that closely followed upon that feverish period of apparent prosperity, and is now permanently established. Its first organization was had on the 23d day of March, 1836, when it commenced with a list of about three hundred members. An act of incorporation was subsequently obtained, (March 3d, 1837,) under which its affairs were entrusted to the charge of a President, three Vice Presidents, a Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and ten Managers, all of whom are annually elected.

The Association has a valuable Library, consisting of nearly 6000 volumes, and comprising many standard works in the several departments of Literature and Science, with some rare and very costly publications, and is constantly supplied with the current publications of the day. Its Reading Room is furnished with choice Reviews and Magazines, and a small, but select number of Newspapers are kept on file. The Lecture department has been generally well sustained, and a high order of talent been enlisted for the instruction of the large audiences who have given attendance at the Lectures.

The number of actual paying Members at present is about six hundred. The Fee for Initiation is $1, dues $3 a year, payable semi-annually, in advance.

The officers for the present year are as follows:

OFFICERS.

James Sheldon, President,
William D. Fobes, 1st Vice President,

DR. LAMONT, M. D.

(FROM EUROPE,)

OCULIST AND OPERATIVE SURGEON,

Attends to all Diseases of the Eye, and to operations upon that organ, from 8 to 12 o'clock, at his Office,

121 Main street,Below the Mansion House.

His method of treating AMAUROSIS, upon the European system, has been highly successful in this country. This affection is frequently far advanced before the suspicions of the patient are aroused. The disease often arises without any apparent cause, and the eye exhibits very little change. The more prominent symptoms are gradual obscurity and impairment of the vision, objects at first looking misty or confused; in reading, the letters are not distinctly defined, but run into each other; vision becomes more and more indistinct, sometimes only portions of objects being visible; dark moving spots, or motes, seem to float in the air; flashes of light are evolved, accompanied by pain, giddiness, and a sense of heaviness in the brow or temple, too frequently, by neglect or maltreatment, terminating in total loss of vision.

Cataracts and Opacities, or Specks on the Eye, are effectually removed.

Dr. Lamont would also inform the citizens of Buffalo and vicinity, and the public generally, that, having practiced in Europe for eighteen years with eminent success, he can be consulted on all other diseases incident to the human system, particularly chronic and pulmonic complaints, female weakness of every kind, such as prolapsus uteri, or falling of the womb, nervous affections and general debility in all their various stages, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, curvature of the spine, and all spinal disease.

Dr. Lamont will guaranty a cure in every case he undertakes. Patients from the country not finding it convenient to see Dr. Lamont, may write a statement of their case, and by describing minutely the symptoms of their disease, and remitting a fee of one dollar for advice, or five dollars for advice and medicine, such persons can receive medicine and advice, suited to their individual cases. All letters directed to

Dr. Lamont, No. 121 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y., must be post paid, to receive attention.

At Dr. Lamont's office will be found his highly improved and justly celebrated abdominal supporters, for prolapsus uteri, or falling of the womb; his celebrated supporter brace, for curvature of the spine and all spinal complaints; also, his celebrated gentlemen's and ladies' chest expanding brace, for weakness of the chest and stooping of the shoulders; likewise, his elastic band, for simple weakness of the back. The above articles are recommended by the first of the faculty, both in Europe and this country, and are emphatically the instruments, and worthy the attention of all invalids requiring mechanical support.

Dr. Lamont would also inform the public, that his instruments can be found at no other place in Buffalo, or in the United States, except at his office, No. 121 Main street, and that all braces, supporters, and other bandages sold at his establishment, are made to order. Invalids will perceive the importance of this arrangement, as every article is warranted to fit, and to be worn with ease and comfort, and all defects of the human frame can be remedied by the use of these instruments immediately and permanently.

Dr. Lamont will give examinations on the chest, to detect diseases of the lungs, every day, at his office, No. 121 Main street, Buffalo, below the Mansion House, on the same side.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH, ENCASED WITH GOLD.

DR. REYNOLDS,

Having just completed a most important improvement in the construction of ARTIFICIAL TEETH. They are literally Encased with Fine Gold.

For beauty, strength and durability, they are unsurpassed. Several gentlemen have examined a set which he has just finished, and they cheerfully affirm that this set is beyond comparison,

Superior to any Artificial Teeth,

They have ever seen, and the improvement needs only to be examined to be fully appreciated.

This set may be examined by those interested, by calling at his office, at his old Rooms, over Butlers' Bookstore, 159 Main street, where he continues the Practice of Dental Surgery in all its branches.

For a more particular account of the great success which has attended his effort in supplying whole and part sets of teeth, and also preserving the natural teeth after they begin to decay—see a pamphlet that he has published, entitled the best means of Preserving the Health, Beauty, and Durability of the Teeth.

All operations entrusted to his care, will be performed by him personally. Decaying Teeth cleaned and filled with pure Gold, &c., in a manner that entirely arrests the disease, and preserves their future usefulness. Teeth made firm, which had become loose through want of cleanliness, improper use of mercury, scrofula and other diseases of the gums. Teeth and Roots extracted with care, ease and safety. Irregularities of the teeth corrected, and every thing pertaining to

DENTISTRY,

Executed in the most scientific and superior manner.

Dr. R. employs none but the best materials in every department of his profession.
